

Why do Finland's schools get the best results?

The first lesson about school in Finland is _____, take your _____ when you arrive. In the classroom call the teachers _____. The teacher says: "I like _____ with my children, my students. I see the problems and after five years I still know and see what has happened in their _____, the things that we can do, I tell them I'm their _____". Learning foreign languages here is seen as _____. For these _____ French is not 2nd but 3rd language, when they are thirteen some will speak a 4th. In Finland success is not measured on _____. Learning is more like a _____. Giving pupils extra help is _____. _____ is important here: In PE the kids _____ for a long cross-country ski. Statistic: Children here do _____ number of class hours per week in the _____ and get the best results. In countries like the UK or the US education is built around the idea of _____. Some schools will _____, some won't. Education tourism: over 100 _____ visited the country last year.

Speaking about the future: The woman in charge of education thinks there's still _____. They're starting a pilot project about how to pay more attention to those children who are _____. For the Finnish mobile phone giant (Nokia) it's about maintaining high standards in the core subjects and _____ across the work force. Keep a good level in _____. Working with less talented people makes you _____.

They have a culture here of _____ education and parents have a _____ too. To sum up: Education is built upon the idea of "_____", schools _____ politicians, where nobody is _____,

Why do Finland's schools get the best results?

The first lesson about school in Finland is _____, take your _____ when you arrive. In the classroom call the teachers _____. The teacher says: "I like _____ with my children, my students. I see the problems and after five years I still know and see what has happened in their _____, the things that we can do, I tell them I'm their _____". Learning foreign languages here is seen as _____. For these _____ French is not 2nd but 3rd language, when they are thirteen some will speak a 4th. In Finland success is not measured on _____. Learning is more like a _____. Giving pupils extra help is _____. _____ is important here: In PE the kids _____ for a long cross-country ski. Statistic: Children here do _____ number of class hours per week in the _____ and get the best results. In countries like the UK or the US education is built around the idea of _____. Some schools will _____, some won't. Education tourism: over 100 _____ visited the country last year.

Speaking about the future: The woman in charge of education thinks there's still _____. They're starting a pilot project about how to pay more attention to those children who are _____. For the Finnish mobile phone giant (Nokia) it's about maintaining high standards in the core subjects and _____ across the work force. Keep a good level in _____. Working with less talented people makes you _____.

They have a culture here of _____ education and parents have a _____ too. To sum up: Education is built upon the idea of "_____", schools _____ politicians, where nobody is _____,