"We needn't have booked a table. The pub is empty."

"No era necesario reservar mesa. El bar está vacío."
"No teníamos que haber reservado mesa. El bar está vacío."

MUST/CAN'T/COULDN'T HAVE

Certeza de que algo sucediera o no

"I'm sure the teacher forgot about the exam."
"The teacher must have forgotten about the exam."

"Estoy segura de que la profe se olvidó del examen."
"La profe debe haberse olvidado del examen."

COULD HAVE

Algo pudo suceder pero finalmente no sucedió (y dependía del sujeto)

"She liked the white dress, but she bought the black one."
"She could have bought the white dress, but she bought the black one."

"Le gustaba el vestido blanco, pero se compró el negro."
"Podría haberse comprado el vestido blanco, pero se compró el negro."

SHOULD/SHOULDN'T HAVE

Arrepentimiento por algo que sucedió o no

"I wish I had studied more. I've failed the exam."

Zoe, 30

I got a tattoo and it didn't turn out as expected. I wanted to cover my entire back with an English quote by Shakespeare but the tattoo artist spelled it wrong and now I'm stuck with a permanent misspelling on my body. It's so embarrassing to have "TO VE OR NOT TO VE" on my body!

E.g. She could have written the quote for the tattoo artist.

I totally regret buying this broken phone. It's been such a pain and a total waste of money. I thought I was getting a good deal at the time, but it turns out the phone was all messed up and I didn't even realize until I tried to use it. Now, I'm stuck with a phone that doesn't work and have to deal with getting it fixed or finding a new one.
