

		rule	examples
comparatives	short adjectives	adjective + er THAN (double final consonant) (-y ⇨ -ier)	My sister is taller than you. They are slimmer than me. Sue is funnier than Eve.
	long adjectives	more + adjective + THAN	This unit is more important than that one. My mobile is more modern than yours.
	exceptions	good ⇨ better bad ⇨ worse far ⇨ father, further	My car is good but yours is better . The situation is worse than I expected. Coruña is farther than Lugo.
superlatives	short adjectives	THE + adjective + est (double final consonant) (-y ⇨ -iest)	He is the wisest person in the family. This is the hottest fashion. Those jeans are the trendiest .
	long adjectives	THE + most + adjective	This is the most exciting book I've ever read. The Beatles were the most popular band ever.
	exceptions	good ⇨ best bad ⇨ worst far ⇨ farthest, furthest	This book is the best seller. Pollution is the worst problem we have. Australia is the farthest country from Spain.
as ... as		(not) as + adjective + as	Jake is as tall as Shane. My mobile phone isn't as expensive as yours.
too		too + adjective	The exam was too difficult for me.
enough		(not) + adjective + enough	They are clever enough to be quiet. The trousers aren't long enough for me.

The background of the slide features a faint, light blue image of classical architecture, including a tall column and a pedimented structure, set against a light blue gradient background.

Comparatives of inferiority

- Less + adjective + than

'He is less tall / intelligent than her'

- In Spanish we use 'menos' + adjective + 'que'

Superlatives of inferiority

- The least + adjective (in / of)

'He is the least tall / intelligent
in the group / of the students'

- In Spanish we use

'el menos' + adjective ('de')