

Maria decided to learn English last year. She wanted to travel abroad. She wanted to find a better job. She downloaded a language app on her phone. She bought a grammar book. She started to study every evening.

At the beginning, she found it difficult. She did not understand the pronunciation. She forgot new words quickly. She felt frustrated. She continued to practice.

She watched videos in English. She listened to songs. She repeated sentences aloud. She wrote new vocabulary in a notebook. She read short stories. She tried to guess the meaning of unknown words.

After a few months, she noticed progress. She understood simple conversations. She spoke with tourists in her city. She felt more confident. Her teacher congratulated her.

Now Maria studies English three times a week. She plans to take an exam next year. She dreams of working in another country. She knows the journey is long. She feels motivated to continue.

Maria decided to learn English last year. She wanted to travel abroad. She wanted to find a better job. She downloaded a language app on her phone. She bought a grammar book. She started to study every evening.

At the beginning, she found it difficult. She did not understand the pronunciation. She forgot new words quickly. She felt frustrated. She continued to practice.

She watched videos in English. She listened to songs. She repeated sentences aloud. She wrote new vocabulary in a notebook. She read short stories. She tried to guess the meaning of unknown words.

After a few months, she noticed progress. She understood simple conversations. She spoke with tourists in her city. She felt more confident. Her teacher congratulated her.

Now Maria studies English three times a week. She plans to take an exam next year. She dreams of working in another country. She knows the journey is long. She feels motivated to continue.